The returns continue to be highly favorable to the Whigs. By the table which we give below, extended by slips from the Vermont Mercury and People's Press, it will be seen that the returns from 195 towns give Paine a majority of about 2,700 over Smilie, and 900 ever both Loco and scattering. About 50 towns remain to be heard from, but they are mostly small ones. The Representatives elect thus far stand 117 Whigs to 88 Locos, and the Senate probably 18 Whigs to 12 Towns. Paine W.

The managers of the affair had forgotten that one of the best acts of Mr. Tyler's official career was the announcement of his resolution to sustain the legally constituted Government of Rhode Island in gally constituted Government of Rhode Island in gally constituted Government of Rhode Island in opposition to the banditti who menaced her in

That committee, though ever, were the getters up of the show in either memory or tact, that they actually lavished the symbols of mourning upon the triumphant supremacy of the laws in Rhode Island, which he, whom they professed to honor, was most instrumental in sustaining! They compliment their hero by lamenting over his best deeds! No wonder, then, that they applaud his worst ones.

Wno Pays for it ?-G. F. The paper was headed by a prominent Tyler office holder to the tune of $25. It is said that a list of such as refuse to pay will be forwarded to Washington City to be placed on file! Surely good men of all parties mast deprecate such a proceeding as this.

The Doctrines of Dorrism.

The indications on every side that Loco-Focoism is determined to protract and e ite to the utmost the difficulties which have convulsed the State of Rhode Island, are too plain to be mistaken. The sympathising resolution passed by our Legislature-the fact that Martin Van Buren addressed a letter of encouragement and support to the late Dorr gathering at the Seekonk Clam-bake -the course of Govs. Hubbard and Cleveland, backed by their Legislatures-the general tenor of the Loce-Foco press-the open threat that Representatives from Rhode Island elected under Dorr's Constitution, and none others, shall take their seats in the next Congress if the Loco-Focos have the power-all point unerringly in that direction. More recently-indeed, on Friday last-resolutions asserting the legality of the Dorr movement. and that Dorr's is the rightful Government of Rhode Island, were offered by a Loco-Foco in the continuance of the liberal patronage with which it has Senate of Massachusetts and sustained by the entire party. These ominous movements impose on the entire country the necessity of carefully examining and perfectly understanding the elements and character of this Rhode Island controversy. and we make no apology for re-stating and illustrating them.

But we have a few words first to say to Mr. Martin Van Buren of Kinderhook, Columbia county, who has chosen to mix himself with this controversy in a manner emineutly bespeaking a dishonest purpose and a disingenuous nature .-That we may not be accused of misrepresenting it, we publish it entire, placing in Italics that portion which we deem uncandid, and virtually insinuating a falsehood. Here it is:

KINDERHOOK, Aug. 27, 1842.

Sir:—I have received your letter of the 16th inst. containing an invitation from the Committee of Arrangements of which you are the Chairman, to meet the Democrats and Friends of Suffrage in Rhode Island at a Mass Clam Bake, in Suckenk Mass on the 3th in-KINDERHOOK, Aug. 27, 1842. in Seekonk, Mass. on the 30th inst.

Although I have to regret that it will not be in my power Although I have to regret that it will not be in my power to be present on the occasion, I must beg you to convey to the meeting my acknowledgements for their friendly remembrance of me, and to assure them of my most hearty sympathy with them in their efforts to secure for the People of Phode Island the enjoyment of the rights and privileges to which they are entitled and which are enjoyed by their fellow citizens in the other States of the Union. While I regard the obstructions to long and pertinaciously offered in your States to the establishment of the sacred institution of your States to the establishment of the sacred institution of free and equal suffrage as alike impolitic and unjust. I am happy to believe that they will yet be made to yield to the persevering demands of the masses, and that the principles of equal rights and democratic liberty must uttimately prevail in Rhode Island, as elsewhere.

Be pleased to express to those for whom you act, and to recent for women't assurances of my respect and regard. accept for yourself, assurances of my respect and regard.
Your most obd't serv't.
M. VAN BUREN.

P. W. FERRIS, Esq. Chairman. Now the ignorant and undiscerning throughout the land on whom this letter is intended to or rate do not know that the question of Free frage is no longer a subsisting one in Rhod and, but Martin Van Buren knows it right He knows that the question now at is whether the Suffrage shall be largely ex aded, for that is conceded on all hands, but whether it shall be extended as it was in this State and in other States, or whether those who ask to be admitted to Political power shall without ceremony help themselves. The question is whether a Free Constitution shall be formed in Rhode Island as in this and all other States by a Convention called by the Legislature elected under a Suffrage defined by law. The difference Mr. Van Buren very well understands: he knows that it involves the very essential difference between a Government of Laws and one of pure Physical Force. He knows the tremendous effect that the establishment of the Dorr principle would naturally exert upon all the institutions of the Country. He knows that when the Suffrage of this State was more restricted we had many friends of an Extension, but not one advocate of the legal. Constitutional right of the nonvoting class to extend it themselves. Knowing hese things as Mr. Van Buren must, we subm to the candid reader that he perverts and misstates the question at issue, with the clear intent of fomenting and aggravating the difficulties which every true Patriot and Republican must seek to obviate. But what are a thousand lives to this "mousing politician" when weighed in the balance

But Mr. V. B. trusts that the principle of Free Suffrage will ultimately prevail! A safe hope that. If intended as a prophecy, it is not very daring to predict the existence some time or other of that which has already taken place. Indeed, looking back on the progress he has himself made on this subject he ought not to despair of any body else. It is now but twenty-one years since Mr. Van Buren was himself a member of the Convention which formed the present Constitution of this State, wherein, so far from advocating the right of the non-voters to help themselves to the Right of Suffrage, he stood opposed to Universal Suffrage 146 at all. That we do not misrepresent him on this point either, we quote directly from the official 141 Report of the Debates and Proceedings of the Convention, pages 181, 182, viz:-

with a dozen votes for the Presidency?

Mr VAN BUREN said, that as the vote he should now give on what was called the highway qualification, would be diferent from what it had been on a former occasion, he elt governed him. The qualifications reported by the first Committee, were of three kinds, viz: The payment of a money tax; the performance of military duty; and working on the highways. The two former had met with his occided approbation; to the latter he wissed to add the additional qualification, that the elector, if he paid no tax, performed The second side of the second had, however, been very properly reinstated.

Mr. Van Buren said he had, on the motion of the gentleman from Columbia this day, hinted at the numerous ob-jections which he had to the proposition which the other day passed the Convention, in regard to the right of suf-frage; objections which he intended to make, has the Com-mittee reported in favor of that vote; and by which, when of all qualifications. At this moment he would only say, that among the many evils which would flow from a whorly parestricted suffrage, the following would be the most injulst. It would give to the city of New-York about twentyfive thousand votes; while, under the liberal extension of the right on the choice of delegates to this Convention, she had but about thirtres thousand. That the character of the increased number of votes would be such as would render their elections rather a curse than a blessing—which would drive from the polls all sober minded people; and such, he was happy to had, was the united opinion, or nearly so, of the delegation of that city,

20. It would not only be injurious to them, but that injury would work an equally great one to the western and north-ern parts of the State. It was the present consulation of our ardy sons of the west, that for their toils and their suffering in reducing to cultivation the wilserness they were chevred by the conviction, not only that they would be secure in the enj-yoient of their dear-bought improvements, in conse-quence of their representation in the Legislature, but that quence of their representation in the Legislabre, but that any increase of that representation gave them a still greater influence there; that, as far as it respected this State, their march and the march of empire kept pace; this arose from the circumstance of the representation in the State being founded on the number of electors; and because almost every man, in a new country, was an elector under the existing and contemplated qualification, while in the old counties, and especially in the cities, there were great numbers who would not be embraced by them. So great was this effect, that the city of New-York alone would, under the effect, that the city of New-York alone would, under the vote of the other day, have became entitled to additional voters over what she was on the election of delegates, equal, or nearly so, to the whole number of votes or Ontario or Genesee. The direct consequence of which would be, that the additional representation of fourteen Members, which are next year to be distributed among the counties, would, instead of going principally to the west, be surrendered to the very worst population of the old counties and cities.—And,

3dly, The door would have been entirely closed against on experience, as to the evil tendency of this extended suf-frage. The just equilibrium between the right of those who frage. The just equilibrium between the right of those have, and those who have not, an interest in the government. could, when once surrendered, never be regained, except

According to the present report, if experience should point out dangers from the very extensive suffrage we were about to establish, the Legislature might relieve against the evil, by curtailing the objects and subjects of taxation. By the establishmen of turnpikes, the making of canais, and the establishment of turnplaces, the making of canais, and the general improvements of the country, the highway tax would naturally be lessened, and might, if the Legislature thought proper, be hereafter confined to property, instead of imposing it, as they now do, on every adult. For one bundred years, at least, this would afford a sufficient protection with a which which were appearanced. tion against the evils which were apprehended.

He would, therefore, notwithstanding his desire to have the qualification of householder added to the electors of the third description, remained unchanged, accept the report of the Committee as it was, with the addition of the mili-tary qualification, which he thought ought to be adopted tary qualification, which he thought ought to be adopted for the sake of principle, if for no other reason. He thought the Committee, constituted as they were, had done themselves great credit by their concession to the opinion of those from whom they had differed, and he, for one, returned them his sincere thanks. Under all circumstances, he would be well satisfied with the right of suffrage as it will now be established, and would give it his zealous support, as well in his capacity of delegate as that of citizen.

There is account.

There is enough more like this in the volume before us, but we shall not quote it, having given the whole Report of Mr. Van Buren's longest and mast elaborate Speech on the Suffrage question. We do not denounce Mr. Van Buren for his sentiments, nor do we assert that they may not have been modified by intervening years; but we do insist that he is not the man to accuse others, who merely ask that the extension shall be made legally and offer to make it, of hostility to Free Suffrage.

-We shall return to the general subject.

It is much mare signify and unique than has yet been produced by the combined ingentity of the Mechan-ics of Europe or America. The most important of the many ics of Europe or America. The most important of the many advantages it possesses over ordinary Hydrans; now in the is the peculiar construction of the metal valve and the quality of the metal of which it is composed, which it is substituted for the common leather valve, which it is impossible to keep tight, although thousands of dollars are annually expended in the attempt, to but little purpose. The advantage of this improvement consist—ist, in its not being liable to leak, the nature of the valve being such, that if perchance leak, the nature of the valve being such, that it perchange a grave-istone should pass and scratch it and cause it to leak, it can be refuted by a few turns, by the force of water pressing the valve against the Hydrant, and thereby prevent leakage without disturbing the Hydrant; while a gravelleakage without disturbing the Hydran, while a graves-stone in passing the common leather valve generally causes it to leak beyond repair, or destroys it altogether. 2d, the leakage being prevented there is no chance of the Hydrant becoming useless by frost or by leakage-water being inraed to ice, which is all-important in cases of fire. 3d, there is no wood required as with the common.
